The Web 4 Peace is a project designed by the ICT Department of The African Centre for Peace Building-AFCOPB to provide website base support to young but legally registered active NGO's in Africa.

The project seeks to develop and manage website for NGO's who do not have the skills and other resources to enable them acquired a website. It would also provide training for staff (s) of the subscribers who could manage the site after development.

The Centre has noticed with great concern the low level of technology adaptation that still remains an issue among many Africans in this 21st Century. It is in this direction that the Centre seeks to bring web based technology to young NGO's in Africa which would enhance their access and determination of their works and other information to the general public.
